The presents have been unwrapped. The turkey's been eaten. Santa's taking his well-earned 11-month holiday. The aftermath of Christmas can seem like a damp squib, especially for kids. As luck would have it, there are still events to keep the children entertained after Christmas Day has finished.

A great example is Genoa's international circus festival, which is guaranteed to delight and enchant youngsters (and maybe a few adults too). Mixing traditional circus and street festival entertainments, the event will be marking its 21st year this December with performances from both Italian and European entertainers. Great fun, and a hugely enjoyable way to round off the year.
